

Week ending 24th January 2020

Literacy

This week in literacy, the children have started learning about what a dilemma is and understanding the structure and language of a persuasive letter.

Maths

We have continued looking at decimals this week in maths. The children have been dividing one digit and two digit numbers by 10 and 100 using a place value grid and solving problem questions.

Science

The children have had the opportunity to plan and carry out a fair test to find out which surface has the most friction this week in science.
