

Week beginning 31st January 2022

Another amazing week of learning comes to an end.

Maths

In maths, this week we moved onto the Time unit where we began by learning how to convert the time shown on an analogue clock into the digital 12 hour clock format. Once the children grasped this, they moved onto solving problems involving converting time.

Literacy

This week we started a new literacy unit where children will be writing a dialogue between two characters from the story we have been reading this half term called The Last Wolf. We began by recapping the rules of punctuating speech and used this knowledge to edit a piece of text with missing punctuation. We learned different strategies used by authors to express which character is speaking as well as different synonyms for said, ensuring the children use one which matches the emotion of the character. We ended the week by converting a comic strip into direct speech by applying the rules and strategies learned throughout the week.
